More CIA resignations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three more top officials in the CIA's counterintelligence division are stepping down in the midst of a reported policy dispute and allegations that the agency was involved in domestic spying.

Along with the resignation of counterintelligence chief James J. No compromise on contempt of court

Committee members facing possible fines to the 18,000 Boston pupils now being or jail terms for refusing to implement further integration have failed to find a compromise to resolve contempt of court citations, lawyers for them said today.

The federal judge in the case said he would issue a written order later in the day outlining what sanctions would be imposed on the defiant committee members.

Chairman John J. Kerrigan, John J. McDonough and Paul Ellison were cited Friday for civil contempt by U.S District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity. Garrity, however, gave the three the weekend to reconsider their decisions before he imposes penalties.

All three men were to appear this morning before Garrity.

The three officials said they would rather go to jail than back down on their disapproval of the Phase Two desegregation plan. That plan, scheduled to be implemented next fall, calls for the Ford also was reported ready to abandon his proposed income tax surcharge, a measure he urged earlier this year when he declared inflation to be public enemy No.

However, the deepening recession reportedly has led some White House economic advisers to push for a tax cut. That advice was said to have been given to Ford over the weekend when he met with his economic advisers.

There was no indication whether Ford will propose a tax cut. Ford has sworn his advisers to secrecy, and press Secretary Ron Nessen has said that Ford will not announce any new programs until his State of the Union address sometime after the new Congress convenes on Jan. 14. But Nessen said Ford plans "fundamental changes" in the management of the nation's economy.

As Ford continues his working vacation here, he is facing decisions on 122 bills passed by Congress. He must act by midnight tonight on a controversial measure to control strip mining.

Ford has promised to veto the bill on the grounds that it would discourage coal production and add to inflationary Nessen has said Ford has but two options on strip mining: to sign a formal veto message or simply let the legislation die without his signature. In recent days, however, some businessmen who presumably would be adversely affected by the bill have urged Ford to change his mind and sign it lest the new Congress vote a tougher measure.

Now in the homeward-bound stretch of his work-and-ski vacation that began Dec. 22, Ford sandwiched about two hours of skiing between work sessions at his snowcovered ski chalet Sunday.

He has been on the slopes each day here except Friday when he held a day-long when it became clear that the surcharge conference with energy policy advisers.

One source said Miler had been Angleton's choice to ultimately succeed him as counterintelligence chief.

A source who worked with all four officials said their decisions were influenced in part by added benefits available to government employes who retire before the end of the year. However, the source said allegations of domestic surveillance and a long standing policy dispute with Colby were the major factors in the retirements of Rocca and Miler.

It was learned that Angleton's name was mentioned in one draft of the 50-page report on the alleged domestic spying that Colby has forwarded to President Ford. Details of the reference to Angleton could not be determined.

A well-informed source said the counterintelligence staff disagreed "totally" with Colby over interpretation of events in the Soviet bloc and was more suspicious than higher policymakers about the Soviet Union's expressed desire for de-

Angleton and his staff were said by this source to believe that the agency was being destroyed by Colby's disclosures of agency activities, including CIA involvement in Chile and agency contacts with U.S. journalists abroad.

The source added that the counterintelligence staff objected in general to Colby's policy of increased public appearances, particularly his debate earlier this year with Daniel Ellsberg at a panel sponsored by a research group critical of the CIA.

Hood was identified by several sources as head of the agency's operations in New York City during the early 1970's. Proxmire called for establishment of "an independent special prosecutor with subpoena powers who will prosecute every illegal action by CIA agents, past or present." He also said Congress should amend the act creating the CIA to clear up any ambiguity over the prohibition against domestic operations by the agency.

Watergate jury deliberating case of the defendants.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The case of five former Nixon administration and campaign aides charged with conspiring to obstruct the investigation into the Watergate break-in went to the jury today.

At 12:30 p.m. EST, the nine women and three men who will decide the guilt or innocence of the five defendants filed from the courtroom.

For nearly two hours before they received the case, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica instructed the jurors on the legal ssues involved and urged them to reach their verdict "fearlessly, calmly and dispassionately and without sympathy or bias for or against anybody.

Earlier, Sirica told the jurors "neither the pardon of former President Nixon nor any other cases or extraneous matters should have any effect on your deliberations or your verdict.

That was the only reference Sirica made in his instructions to Nixon who was driven from office by the Watergate scandal.

The case went to the jury on the 62nd day of the trial and after they had heard testimony from more than 80 witnesses and had listened to 30 tapes including 28 of presidential conversations during the Nixon administration.

Repeatedly Sirica explained that the cover-up would be a conspiracy to "influence, obstruct and impede and corruptly endeavor to influence, obstruct and impede, the due administration of justice in connection with the Watergate investigation and in connection with the trial of the original Watergate defendants ...

The defendants sat expressionless in the paneled courtroom where they have spent most of their days since the trial began Oct. 1.

The five defendants are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, ex-White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, former assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson, one-time lawyer for the Nixon re-election committee.

Sirica informed the jury for the first time that he had dismissed two counts in the indictment which charged Ehrlichman and Mitchell with lying to FBI agents.

Terrorists free 60 hostages, flee

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - Nine terrorists today released hostages they held for 60 hours and flew off to Cuba with 16 sympathizers freed from Nicaraguan jails, officials said. The Roman Catholic archbishop of Managua went along to guarantee their safety.

Mills victim of 'acute alcoholism'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Wilbur Mills said today he intends to remain in Congress despite an illness that he described as acute alcoholism

"I know that I am a well man as long as I do not drink, and, by the grace of God and with competent medical advice and the support of friends, I will remain well." Mills said. He added:

"In light of the above, it is my intention to continue in the Congress of the United States. My years of experience have given me some ability to make a contribution toward the solution of the problems of the times in which we live," the Arkansas Democrat said.

Mills is in Bethesda Naval Hospital, which he entered after appearing on a Boston stage with Annabel Battistella, the strip-tease dancer in whose company he was found when police stopped his limosine at Washington's Tidal Basin earlier this year.

He issued his statement today through his office. "I now realize, after several weeks or treatment by the doctors and soulsearching of my own, that I had developed a severe drinking problem, not as a daily drinker but as a periodic heavy drinker,'

Mills said. Mills said that he had scarcely noticed in the last several years that his drinking habits had changed drastically.

He said he understands now that his pattern of drinking corresponds with alcoholism, which he called "a physical illness, as much as cancer and diabetes, and even more destructive in the sense that it affects far more people than the sufferer."

"I know now that I have been a sick man who did not understand the nature of the illness," Mills said. "I now have an understanding of the nature of this disease and I know how to live with it. The answer lies in total abstinence.

Home designs coordinate with fashions

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

A spiral staircase that can be assembled in one day. gingham window blinds with narrow slats, modular sisal carpet squares, coordinated window walls that resemble knits and a ceiling system of ready-to-hang three-foot panels that simulate stained glass. These are among the newer ideas singled out in the annual product design awards program of the Resources Council, the association of interior furnishings manufacturers that services all segments of the industry.

Winning designs for walls, floors, carpets and draperies seemed to coordinate with wardrobe fashions - the bulky sweater look and knits. for example.

Jack Lenor Larsen's wallsurfacing in gargantuan, waffle-weave of heavy, naturalcolored wool yarns is "sufficiently thick and dense to create air pockets to drink up noise and modulate sound" emphasizes the designer. The 102-inch width is applied horizontally without seams and can be removed for immersion cleaning, or transferred to another location. As a drapery it is touted as providing insulation against heat or cold, sound and light.

Polly's pointers

Old woodwork proves shiny

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with those individuals who advertise an article for sale and tell everything about it except the price. I have seen several ads for things I might have been interested in buying if the prices had been quoted. Instead of calling to ask the price, I just buy a new one.

DEAR POLLY — Recently I painted the walls in my front room and had to remove the brackets that hold the curtain rods. After dropping the screws, screwdriver, etc., several times I hit on the idea of using an empty paint roller pan. Hook it on the ladder. It is perfect for holding everything. I could even move the ladder from window to window and things stayed in the tray. Now when doing anything on a ladder, even outdoors, I hook up the paint pan. — MRS. M.C.

Polly's note - A strip of adhesive-backed plastic tape is also good for holding screws, nails, etc., that are to be reused and might be misplaced.

DEAR POLLY — I hope my Pointer will save someone a plumber's bill. Recently I was canning tomatoes and was joyfully planning to dispose of the mess in my new garbage disposal when mother warned me not to do it. During a plumbing excavation at her house pipes had been unearthed that were clogged with slimy tomato skins. Apparently being so thin they cling to the sides of the pipes indefinitely just waiting to cause a problem. — PATRICIA.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY - I want to remove the shine from old woodwork. The finish basically is in good condition so I do not want to remove it entirely but just the high gloss. Any help will be appreciated. - M.J.S.

DEAR M.J.S. - I have used a detergent such as used for washing really dirty clothes in water and found it dulk a high finish on woodwork enough so that paint will stick to it. You might try that and then polish the surface back to the desired sheen. First experiment on a place behind a door. A furniture wash that might do the job is three tablespoons linseed oil, one tablespoon turpentine and a quart of hot water. Mix thoughly, let cool, wring a cloth out of this, do a small area at a time, wipe dry and so on. - POLLY.

Autopsies scheduled on fire victims

(Democrat-Capital Service)

STOVER — The bodies of four persons who died in a fire Thursday night in Stover will be X-rayed Monday night and will undergo autopsies Tuesday, according to Jim Scrivner, owner of Scrivner's Funeral Home in Stover Scrivner said blood samples were taken Friday from the bodies of Otis and Mae Gregory, their son, Jerry, and their grandson, Mark Dickey. The samples were taken at Scrivner's second funeral home in Versailles. The samples were taken for the State Fire Marshall Office and are currently in the Highway Patrol Laboratory in Jefferson City.

Monday morning State Fire Marshall Robert Morrison said the investigation is completely up to the Morgan County sheriff's department now. Saturday deputy Fire Marshall Richard Dyer said the investigation was finished due to the death of a fifth person, Jewell Cowell. He died Saturday in Columbia at the University Medical Center after being taken from the burning trailer home in Stover by a neighbor Thursday night

The State Fire Marshall's office has ruled the fire was caused by arson and a murder-suicide could have been the motive. Dyer said Saturday night that evidence at the scene showed no outsiders were involved in starting the fire.

Scrivner said the body of Cowell was not at either of his funeral homes. The funerals for the other four persons will continue as scheduled Monday afternoon. Scrivner said their burial would be delayed until after their autopsy Morgan County Sheriff L. M. Earnest was not available for comment Monday morning.

Gold reaches still another high on European markets

LONDON (AP) — Gold hit record highs on the European bullion markets today, but later eased off in afternoon trading.

In Paris, where prices are normally higher due to exchange control regulations, the price broke through the $200-an-ounce barrier in the morning. reaching $201.40. It was not a record in francs, in which the metal is actually traded in Paris, as the dollar has been devalued since the previous high in francs.

All-time highs were reached in London and Zurich, the world's two largest free markets for gold, with quotes hitting $198 an ounce.

But prices slumped later and the afternoon fixing in London was $195.25,

Oil firm fined for political fund donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ashland Oil Corp. was fined $25,000 today for unlawful corporate donations to political candidates and organizations in 1970 and 1972 including one said to have been delivered to Robert L. Strauss, now the Democratic national chairman.

The Kentucky-based firm pleaded guilty to each of five misdemeanor counts in a surprise information brought by the Watergate special prosecutor's office. Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart imposed the maximum $5,000 fine on each

One count said an Ashland representative turned over $50,000 in cash to Strauss between June 1970 and February 1972 for use by the Democratic National Committee. Strauss was then treasurer of

The other charges were based on unlawful contributions of $6,865 to campaign committees for Democratic Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in 1970 and 1972, $100,000 to various committees for Senate and House candidates in early 1972, $2,500 to the re-election campaign of Republican Sen. John Tower of Texas in 1972, and $10,000 for the unsuccessful Senate race of Kentucky Republican Louie B. Munn in that year.

An attorney for Ashland said the fine would be paid personally by the corporation's chairman, Orin E. Atkins, who in 1973 pleaded no-contest and was fined $1,000 individually on charges of making unlawful donations to the reelection campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Seepy areas

Hillside seeps are a common occurrence in our area. They are caused by ground water flowing on top of an impervious layer of soil such as clay, hard pan or rock. Seeps may also be caused from water flowing from sand layers. Seeps give the most trouble during the spring and early summer or after extremely wet periods following heavy rainfall.

The remedy is to install a 4 or 5 inch drain line just above the wet area. The tile should be 21/2 to 3 feet deep to prevent damage from farm operations. However, it should be at the same elevation or lower than the surface of the tight soil layer. The tile picks up the water before it reaches the surface and carries it to the drain outlet. Attempts to block Bond's appointment

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond's attempt to replace a Highway Commission member under the new state reorganization law is illegal, the commission member has charged.

Roger R. Linsin of St. Louis has filed suit to block Bond's efforts to replace him on the commission.

The suit, filed Friday in Cole County Circuit Court, is the first legal move against a Bond appointment under the reorganization statute, which took effect last June. Linsin said in the suit that Bond attempted to replace him last summer with Vernon Landgraf. The governor later withdrew Landgraf's name but still claims the power to make such an appointment, Linsin said. Bond has maintained that he could replace Linsin because the old Highway Commission was abolished under the reorganization. The suit contends, however, that any replacement before Linsin's term expires violates Highway Commission provisions and it asks that Linsin be restored to his position and that Bond be prohibited from replacing him. Linsin, a Republican, was appointed to the commission in 1969 by former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Meat imports

Meat imports may be down 15 to 20 per cent in 1974. This places imports below the 'trigger" point of the meat import act. Implementation of the act was temporarily suspended by executive order. Main reason for import decline is that Australia has cut back shipments of frozen boneless beef because of sharply lower prices for that type beef and higher shipping costs. Big expansion in U.S. nonfed beef marketings has been the major factor in declining beef imports.

PSC probe requested

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The Missouri Public Service Commission has been asked to investigate charges that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., operated a political slush fund before the commission grants the utility a requested $52.3 million

Alberta Slavin, the president of the Utility Consumers Council of Missouri, made the request Saturday in a letter to PSC chairman James Mauze.

"I want them to carefully scrutinize the books and records of Southwestern Bell which might shed light on whether any of its executives contributed to political candidates in recent elections and whether they contributed voluntarily or otherwise," Mrs. Sla-

Southwestern Bell has been accused by former employe James H. Ashley of forcing executives in its Missouri offices to make monthly political donations disguised as pay raises to certain candidates.

Ashley, who was fired by the utility in October, is co-plaintiff in a $29 million libel suit against Southwestern Bell.

Mrs. Slavin, of the St. Louis suburb of Clayton, asked the PSC to study salary increases granted to the utility's executives and to include that information at hearings on the rate hike request.

We can learn from setbacks in the U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. - Another stormy session of the UN General Assembly has ended with this world body under unusual attack. The United States, through Ambassador John Scali, is leading the cries of outrage over so-called "irreponsible" and "illegal" actions by the Asian-African - Arab - Com-recently figured the UN was so moribund that they stopped crying, "Get the UN out of the U.S. and the U.S. out of the UN," are again bumper stickering the hope that they can achieve both objectives.

Considering our policies, U.S. exasperation with the UN probably has only begun. It is conceivable that the U.S. might one day pull out of the UN in a fit of pique and lofty moral protestations. But I doubt it.

First of all, anyone who has watched the UN over the last three decades knows that it often has been under attack by sore

Back in the days when the U.S. controlled a clear majority of the votes, the Russians were outraged at being formally condemned by the General Assembly for the 1956 invasion of Hungary. To show their irritation over this and other votes. the Russians refused to pay their share of the cost of various peace-keeping operations.

After the 26th General Assembly voted to admit the People's Republic of China and oust Nationalist China three years ago, the Taiwan envoy to Washington, James C. H. Shen, declared that the UN did not "deserve to survive" because it had "compromised on basic principles and purposes.

And now that the votes aren't going our way, not only the Ford administration, but the incoming head of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., is assailing this world moral and racial posture of the United desegregation orders. States as they do about the UN.

The U.S. is agitated because of an obvious though unstated belief that a bunch of tiny ragtag African and Asian nations who can't pay their bills, and some nouveau riche Arab sheikhs, ought never to be able to hold balance of UN power and tip the scales toward the Communists.

These small countries are acutely aware of the contempt with which much of Washington views them, and that makes them all the more hostile toward the United States.

These UN delegates perceive correctly — that there has been a decline of racial morality in America; that the socalled "white backlash" not only persists where U.S. blacks are concerned, but that it is a major factor in U.S. foreign policy.

These delegates know that only by a single vote did the U.S. Senate prevent a filibuster so it could nullify a "Marjorie Holt amendment" which would have forbidden the federal government to cut respect and support of the "little"

These attacks say as much about the off funds for school districts that defy

These delegates know a U.S. government that will not press for justice for its own minorities is never going to stand up for the rights of blacks in South Africa, Rhodesia, or Namibia or anyplace else. So they considered the pro-South Africa vote by the U.S. delegate in the UN Security Council as a vote against black people

These delegates don't accept the idea that by virtue of military power, richness, size or anything else, certain "great powers" are entitled to a Security Council veto. So they voted in the General Assembly to oust South Africa in defiance of the Security Council and certain greatpower cries that the vote was illegal.

I concede that that UN rhetoric often runs to the ridiculous, and that emotionalism frequently overrides reason. But what disturbs me most is evidence of the extent to which the U.S. has lost the countries. The Russians who boasted, "We will bury you," have dug us a big hole on this propaganda front.

The UN will be around. It was 21 years ago that Carlos Romulo of the Philippines made the first apocalyptic utterance that "the UN is dying."

But note what the late Secretary General U Thant said to me: "The question is not whether the United Nations is a success or a failure. The point is that there are simply no alternative means in sight for attempting to deal with the urgent global problems which beset us.'

True. So the gut question for us Americans is not whether we ought to be in or out of the UN

The real question is whether U.S. policies are a success or failure - and whether we should conclude from developments in the UN that we are losing what used to be called "the battle for men's minds."

WEST UNION, W. Va. afternoon of the work week, as many as 50 elderly residents of rural Doodridge County gather at a hall near a railroad track to eat, compliments of the U.S. government, what for many is their only hot meal of the day. The lunch, called by the bureaucrats a "nutritional program," is a fine thing. It provides food for the needy, companionship for the lonely and vitamins for the neglectful. Besides, the food is usually quite tasty.

Yet if the program is decent it may also be risky. There is always a danger in government benevolence; people who learn the hard way that what the government giveth the government can taketh away. Even now, as they enjoy a relatively new federal aid program, the oldsters of Doodridge County are threatened with erosions in two other, older, government assistances; President Ford has proposed changes in food stamps and Medicare programs that would severely injure the locals as well as millions of other Americans over age 60 who subsist on fixed incomes.

The latter is not a lovely thing for these people to contemplate as they nibble their lunch. Ford's proposal would raise the monetary liability for hospitalized Medicare patients as much as 800 per cent, and similar increases would be charged for the food stamp recipients. "It's shameful," says 83-year-old Flossy McKinnick, as she pokes a cooked carrot. For some, adds another at the table, who says he avoids doctors now because of the cost, "it's like a sentence of death.'

But the presidential proposals, if hard to swallow here, are not all that surprising. The old in this county, as elsewhere, have grown used to being manipulated for both good and otherwise, by Washington. Aid programs come and go with the frequency of the wind, many of them with approximately the same substance. Even when the programs stick, says local senior citizens coordinator Ruth Nutter, they are often so steeped in regulation and confusion as to be only of minimum

The existing food stamp program is an example of Nutter's good point. It carries with it, for the applicants, an eight-page form and a book-size list of regulations that Nutter characterizes as "real doozies." So difficult are the forms alone, she adds, that many old people disqualify themselves rather than expend the effort and frustration — often once a month — to sign up. Grumps Nutter: "At one time they used to be able to take forms to someone else for help; now they have this new rule where the forms must be filled out in the welfare office and so many of the neediest just won't bother.'

Then there is the federal trip stamp program. It was devised to allow older people with low incomes to take advantage of local transportation systems at reduced rates. Fine. Only here in Doodridge County, and in thousands of other areas of the nation, there is no transportation system. "We don't have as much as a taxi in West Union," says Nutter. "If we did the driver would have to fill out so many forms to get on the program he probably wouldn't join anyway.'

There is of course a certain amount of grim humor derived from the inconsistencies and confusions of federal assistance programs. But quite regularly there are some serious results: Lacking flexibility or efficiency the programs shrink or die, leaving those who have benefitted stranded or wounded. Such may be the case with food stamps, as example.

"There wouldn't be no need to cut it back if they'd just straighten it out," says an old gentleman here on the edge of his salad. "As it is it's open to every Tom, Dick and Harry in the world. If they tightened it up, ran it only for those who really needed it, like us old folks, there wouldn't be no worry now."

But there is worry. Much of it. And not only for food stamps and Medicare but many other programs that keep the old of Doodridge County alive. As they finish their lunch, for instance, there is wonder whether even the noon nutritional program can continue in light of inflation. Ruth Nutter says she could stretch the budget by soliciting free food from the eaters -"lots of them grow their own gardens" but there's not much hope for this

Kissinger angered at Israeli position

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - At a secret White House briefing, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger recently complained that Israel could help prevent a Middle East explosion "by being more flexible."

He charged the Israelis had jeopardized the peace negotiations because they wouldn't give up another 6 kilometers of "What is 6 kilometers," he demanded, 'against the risk of war? ... We were set back because of 6 lousy kilometers."

Kissinger's remarks were made to congressional leaders who gathered behind closed White House doors for a foreignpolicy briefing. The confidential minutes confirm our Dec. 17 report that the sentiment in the backrooms of Washington is turning against Israel.

President Ford began the Middle East discussion by stressing the grave consequences. All his advisers agreed, he said, "that unless some progress is made, the chances of war are very great.'

If this should happen, he warned, "we can look for another oil embargo" and the "likely possibility of confrontation with the

Then Kissinger took over.

In some of the most blunt language he has ever used in front of congressional leaders, he blamed Israel for the stalemate in negotiations with Syria

"Israel had a great opportunity for a West Bank settlement with Jordan's (King) Hussein," Kissinger explained. Israel's failure to deal with Hussein, the secretary contended, led the Arabs to recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization. Now the Israelis must deal with the PLO's hated Yasser Arafat, who has been directing terrorist warfare against them.

This is more than the Israelis can stomach. But because they won't do business with Arafat, the Syrians have halked in their negotiations with Kissinger. This has "stymied" his step-by-step approach to peace, he said, "on the Syrian

REMODELLING SUGGESTION

We are left with movement toward (Egypt's President) Sadat," Kissinger reported, "in hope we can keep up the stepby-step approach." He added hopefully that there is "still a chance for Egyptian negotiation.

'Isn't there danger," asked Rep. Elford Cederberg, R-Mich., "of erosion of U.S. support of Israel?'

Kissinger responded, according to the confidential minutes, by asking a question. Do the Israelis "confuse readiness of the United States to give aid," he inquired significantly, "with readiness of the United States to go to war?"

"I don't think so," interrupted Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., a staunch friend of Israel.

"The Israelis and their friends here," said Kissinger, "need to understand the risk of world solidarity against Israel." He carefully excepted the United States from the growing anti-Israeli bloc. "I tell them," responded Humphrey, "you've got to trust us. You've got to trust Dr. Kissinger. A preemptive strike by Israel would be a colossal mistake as regards the United States. They must trust us.

"I'm meeting with about 15 Jewish community leaders," President Ford broke in. "I'll say about what you've said. They should trust us. If there's a war and the chips are down, there's fear of an anti-Israeli movement in the United States. We're here to guarantee their integrity, but there must be trust on their part.

"The Russian ambassador thinks his country will join us in a pclitical settlement and a joint guarantee of peace in the area," reported Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., the outgoing Senate Foreign Relations chairman.

This would mean abandoning the step-bystep negotiations and going to Geneva for expanded peace talks, warned Kissinger.

'No Arab there will make a concession in front of the others," he feared. Recognition of the PLO, he also warned. would become "the front issue, blocking any others.

"For the Soviets to really help," he suggested, "they will need first to help move the Arabs toward reasonable positions. If (the Soviets) take the extreme Arab position and then ask us to sell that to the Israelis, we're in trouble."

In case the Middle East should go up in flames again, Senate Armed Services Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., suggested that the United States might furnish Israel with arms but no manpower.

"Yes," agreed President Ford. "And we've told them that there's a point where we have to consider what the American position would be.'

There's a limit to the money," grumped Senate Appropriations Chairman George Mahon, D-Tex.

"The Israelis feel that money and armaments are easy to come by," said the President. "I agree there's a limit."

FOOTNOTE: At one point, Rep. William Bray, R-Ind., brought up the question of Iran's apparent shift from the Israeli to the Arab side. He asked whether the fact that Iran is a Moslem nation raised "aspects of a holy war, which could also involve Turkey," also Moslem.

"We should do nothing to Frive Turkey into that position," replied Kissinger.

Reader questions Gold refinery has special ways of doing things use of hormone had my ovaries removed last year. I'm taking Permarin daily

My doctor is a firm believer in hormones, but I have some reservations about them. In your column you stated that a good examination is needed to find out whether or not hormones are needed. What sort of an examination? A pelvic examination would not reveal this, would it?

I don't believe my doctor gives any special thought to whether or not his patients need female hormones. He just prescribes them. He says they keep you young, prevent heart attacks, prevent dowagers hump and that there is no danger.

I've read enough to know that not all professional men hold this view. Also, I have heard personally of cases of cancer and then the person was taken off hormones, and cases of blood clots and the patient taken off hormones or their condition attributed to birth control pills.

I would appreciate your view on the use of hormones and what constitutes a good examination.

Dear Reader - First, it is usually a good idea to provide hormone replacement when the ovaries are removed at a fairly young age. Your doctor's treatment of you in this regard is the norm.

During a pelvic examination if there is a fairly advanced degree of hormone deficiency. drying and shrinking of the tissues can be seen. A few cells taken with a swab as done in a Pap test for cancer can also be stained and examined under the microscope. The color reaction to the stain gives information about how much hormone the body is producing.

The urine can also be examined for the amount of hormone it contains. Your doctor may have done more

Dear Dr. Lamb - I am 46 and than you think. Most patients make the mistake of thinking that all the doctor does is what they see. Actually he often does more work when you are not in his office than he does while you are there. All those tests have to be studied and the total picture of information evaluated.

> Female hormones do not cause cancer of the breast or cervix. There is some concern about how they are given in relation to cancer of the lining of the womb (endometrial cancer). That is why cyclic bleeding is sometimes induced. The shedding of the lining of the uterus, as occurs in menstruation, may be helpful.

Many doctors do believe that once a cancer occurs that female hormones may increase its growth and spread. But, that is much different than saying it causes cancer

Some women do have an increased tendency to have blood clots while taking female hormone or from increased formation of hormones during pregnancy. Other women have clots form anyway without taking anything. So do men think about President Nixon's problem. When a woman has this problem with birth control pills or hormones it can usually be managed by small doses of medicine used to prevent blood clots, commonly called blood

Really, your doctor is doing the right thing for you. Think of it as replacement therapy for what your body would have been dming anyway with normal ovaries. (NEA)

CARTERET, N.J. (AP) -Gold ownership becomes legal for American citizens on Dec. 31, but for Bob Leatherow and his coworkers the precious metal is an everyday commodity.

"Its nothing. There's no kick out of it." says Leatherow, an employe of Engelhard Minerals & Chemical Corp., the nation's largest refiner of gold.

In recent weeks the company's plant here has been working around the clock preparing for the day when Americans will be able to buy and sell gold for the first time since the Depression. Engelhard has been fabricating gold for decades for industrial uses, including the making of jewelry. Not it is gearing its efforts towardproducing gold wafers and bars in sizes from one-half troy ounce to 100 ounces.

'We're very careful about what we do here, and we can certify what we do." said plant manager Bernard Berger. The company, which will be selling its gold through banks and other financial institutions, stipulates that its gold is 999.5 plus fine.

The minuscule bit that isn't gold is a potpourri of elements including tin, lead, calcium, and even some of silver, platinum, rhodium and other precious metals.

Armored trucks deliver bullion to the plant in 400ounce bars, the same size as but much heavier than ordinary bricks.

There are two ways to break the gold down into a workable size. Under one process the workers squeeze the bar through rollers until it is thinned out to 15-foot strips. In the other method the gold is broken down into chunks, melted and poured into molds. Berger prefers the rolling process, but both are used by Engelhard.

After 10 passes through the rollers, the strips are taken to a punch press, where Leatherow's job is to unfurl and feed them into the machine. He makes $5.75 an

A second worker operates the die that cuts the strip into one-ounce waters known as

In an adjoining room several workers check the weight of the planchets, sending any that are too heavy or light out to be reprocessed. Another machine stamps the accepted planchets with the Engelhard name and an insignia number.

The scrap from the punch press is carefully gathered and crushed. Eventually it will be melted down and put through the process again.

Many of the plant workers are older men and women, and all underwent security checks before they were

Berger says attempted after a spill and had it repilferage by employes is rare because "we have very honest people working for us." The company policy is to prosecute anyone suspected of theft. Berger says housekeeping is an important part of the job, because he can't afford to let any bit of precious metal go out with the trash.

Special bins are kept for the sweepings and refuse from the area where gold is used, and this refuse is sent to another Englehard refinery to recover any traces of the metal. Berger says he once tore up a concrete floor

Everyone leaving the plant passes through metal detectors and walks on a grating that gyrates to shake any gold dust off the soles of shoes. That dust, too, is sent to a refinery.

Irish patients complain less

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - Jewish and Italian patients complain more about pain than Irish patients, says a University of Connecticut professor who has edited a new book on pain.

A person's race, religion, nationality, sex and income all make a difference in the way he or she handles pain, according to nationwide studies of patients at hospitals and clinics described in the book.

"Jewish and Italian patients react to pain with louder complaints and make more demands on their doctors. While Italians want pain stopped immediately, Jewish patients are less prone to accept pain relievers to mask the pain," explained Dr. Matisyohu Weisenberg, assistant professor of behavioral sciences and community health at the University of Connecticut School of Dental Medicine.

Memorial Hospital and parents must be residents of Pettis County. Birth reports should be made to the First Baby Contest Editor, Democrat-Capital, within 48 hours after birth. The baby's sex, weight, time of birth, name and the name and address of the parents should be given. NFC title is second straight for Vikings BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — In a strange, error-filled battle, the opportunistic Minnesota Vikings have rolled to their second straight National Football Conference championship and another Super Bowl appearance with a 14-10 victory over Los Angeles.

'We just made too many mistakes in opportune situations," said Rams' quarterback James Harris, who completed 13 of 23 pass attempts for 248 yards. "They played better than we did and beat us.

Minnesota, which has gained a reputation of turning opponent mistakes into championships, lost the ball four times Sunday on turnovers. However, the Rams were plagued by five turnovers and numerous tactical blunders particularly seven penalties including an offside infraction which occurred at the Vikings' one.

Minnesota took a 7-0 lead in the second period when Jim Lash, a second-year wide receiver from Northwestern, hauled in a 29-yard scoring pass from Fran Tarkenton a step ahead of LA right cornerback Al Clark.

The Rams countered with David Ray's 27-yard field goal to cut the deficit to 7-3 by halftime. Then, in the third quarter, a series of unlikely developments unfolded.

The Vikings' Mike Eischeid punted the ball out of bounds at the LA one. The Rams, sparked by a 73-yard pass play from Harris to wide receiver Harold Jackson on a broken. play, moved to the Minnesota one.

Jackson had dashed 50 yards after taking a desperation pass from Harris near midfield, and was knocked out of bounds inside the two by Viking defensive back Jeff Wright.

After the five-vard penalty set LA back to the six. Harris scrambled for four yards, but on the next play he was intercepted by Wally Hilgenberg in the end zone. Harris' pass, intended for tight end Pat Curran, was deflected by Viking defensive back Jackie Wallace.

Minnesota quickly drove 80 yards with veteran running back Dave Osborn hurdling the final yard to push the Vikings into a 14-3 advantage early in the fourth quarter.

Harris got the Rams back into the game three minutes later when he combined with Jackson on a scoring pass covering 44 yards to chop the Minnesota lead to 14-10.

However, many of the players expected to be central figures in the outcome of NFC title match had trouble throughout the game played in bright sunshine and a 31 degree temperature.

The Rams' Lawrence McCutcheon was limited to 32 yards in a dozen carries. Minnesota's Chuck Foreman managed 80 yards in 22 carries, but fumbled four times. Tarkenton also was obviously not operating in top form, overthrowing his receivers several times and being intercepted on another

"The Rams defense is the toughest I've ever played against," said Tarkenton. "They did a lot of things which took away a good part of our offense.'

And the Rams did a lot of things to take away from their

But his loved ones-like a doting, patient parent, Rooney suffered through 39 years of failure with them before they ever played their first playoff game — are very much alive and kicking.

In fact, they kicked Oakland's rushing game in the teeth, kicked apart Ken Stabler's dreams of a second straight miracle comeback and kicked the Raiders out of the playoff game they were favored to win.

ground game, rushing three times for 15 yards. And astonishingly, his total was more than half the total yardage gained by entire Oakland running corps.

Twenty-one times the Raiders punched into Pittsburgh's front line of defense. The result was a meager 29 yards, a new low for an AFC title game.

"They gave us nothing on the ground," Oakland Coach John Madden understated. "Our passing was sufficient but we just couldn't get the run going. I can't remember when our ground game was shut down that effectively ... to win, you've got to have a mixture on offense. We were able to call the mixture, but - which was rare - Bleier we couldn't make it go.'

They responded by limiting New York to just six points in the third period, the lowest scoring quarter by any team in the National Basketball Association this season. The Bucks outscored New York 19-6 in the quarter, opened an 82-65 lead and coasted to a 115-89 triumph. Elsewhere in the NBA Sun-day night, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Atlanta Hawks 110-103, the Kansas City-Omaha Kings edged the Portland Trail Blazers 103-99 and the Boston Celtics whipped the Seattle SuperSonics 121-101.

In the American Basketball Association, the Kentucky Colonels topped the Memphis Sounds 125-114, the Denver Nuggets nipped the San Antonio Spurs 124-121 and the San Diego Conquistadors beat the Spirits of St. Louis 126-114.

The Knicks shot a woeful 13 per cent in the third quarter, hitting only three of 24 field goal attempts. It was the poorest output in one quarter for the New York team since the advent of the 24-second shooting clock in 1954-55. Forward Bob Dandridge scored 31 points for Milwaukee and center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 27 despite a sore back. The Bucks scored the last 15 points of the third quarter and the first two of the fourth to turn the game into a rout.

Turn-overs were the key to Fiesta Bowl triumph

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Brigham Young University Coach LaVell Edwards had prophesied that the 1974 Fiesta Bowl would be decided by turnovers. And, so it came to pass.

Oklahoma State University converted an intercepted pass midway through the second quarter into what proved to be the winning touchdown, and went on to defeat the Cougars 16-6 in Saturday's post-season game before a sellout crowd of 50,879 at Sun Devil Stadium

The interception came off BYU backup quarterback Mark Giles, a junior. He was called on to guide the Cougar's offensive attack after a severely strained right shoulder sidelined Gary Sheide, the nation's No. 2 passer this past season, late in the opening quarter.

Sheide, a senior, thought the Western Athletic Conference champions, who came into the game with a 7-3-1 record and a seven-game winning streak, would have won if he had been able to keep playing.

Edwards agreed. "I can't help but feel that with Sheide in there, we could have done it," said the BYU mentor. "But, I was really pleased with the way Giles played for us.'

Before Sheide was forced out of the game, the Cougars had sustained three drives against the Cowboys and had booted its first field goal.

"Gary Sheide's injury had to have a great deal of influence on the outcome of the game," said Jim Stanley, Oklahoma

"We're very thankful to win," he added. "If our defense

Van Zandt is hired as assistant coach

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) -Lance Van Zandt of Oklahoma State has been hired as assistant head football coach and defensive coordinator at the University of Kansas. Bud Moore, the Jayhawks' new head coach, announced the appointment Saturday night. Van Zandt has been on the Oklahoma State football staff the last two seasons and in 1974 was the team's defensive coordinator. During the past season, O-State was ranked 10th in total defense nationally

Van Zandt, 35, held other college coaching positions at New Mexico Highwaylands. West Texas State, Texas A&M and sixth victory in their last seven hadn't played so well we wouldn't have pulled it out. Any win is a good one, but this was a great one because we beat a

Phil Dokes, a 6-5, 256-pound defensive tackle for the Big 8 Cowboys, executed the crushing tackle which idled Sheide. That, along with a fumble recovery, an unassisted tackle and six assists, earned him honors as the game's most valuable defensive player.

'It was a hell of a game," said Dokes, who lavished praise on the entire Cowboy defensive unit. "Without my other teammates, I couldn't have done much of anything. It was a team effort. I love them all.'

Selected as the most valuable offensive player was his teammate Kenney Walker, a halfback who scampered 12 yards for Oklahoma State's first touchdown.

"I'm really happy," said Walker. "It was the best game I've ever played, although I didn't think I was going to be named as the outstanding offensive player.

Attesting to BYU's strong defense was the fact that Walker wound up with only a total of 35 yards rushing on

Texas, Auburn ready to play

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Texas and Auburn, a couple of teams who disdain the forward pass in favor of basic, old-fashioned, grind-it-out ground games, kick off the final wave of college football bowl games tonight when they square off in the Gator Bowl.

The meeting between the sixth-ranked Auburn Tigers and the 11th-ranked Texas Longhorns will be nationally televised by ABC with game time at 9 p.m., EST. A crowd of about 62,000, somewhat short of the 70,000 capacity, is expected at Jacksonville, Fla.

On Tuesday night Nebraska and Florida will meet in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. Then, on New Year's Day, Penn State plays Baylor in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas and Southern California takes on Ohio State in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., with Notre Dame opposing Alabama in the Orange Bowl in Miami that night.

In Saturday's bowl action, Mississippi State nipped North Carolina 26-24 in the Sun Bowl, Vanderbilt and Texas Tech battled to a 6-6 tie in the Peach Bowl and Oklahoma State beat Brigham Young 16-6 in the Fiesta Bowl. In he Shrine All-Star Game, the East defeated the West 16-14.

The Gator Bowl game is expected to be anything but an aerial circus. Texas ranked 128th and last among major teams in passing yardage, while Auburn was 123rd. Texas quarterbacks Marty Akins and Mike Presley have completed just 33 of 99 pass attempts.

Texas compiled an 8-3 record on an attack built around the running of freshman Earl Campbell, senior Roosevelt Leaks and Akins. Campbell paced the Longhorns with 928 yards rushing, a 5.7 average per carry.

Auburn Coach Shug Jordan says he has nothing special against the pass. "We don't have a bad passing attack," he contends. "Phil Gargas and Chris Vaccarrella, our quarterbacks, throw well. But we haven't had to pass that much."

Auburn fullback Secdrick McIntyre gained 863 yards on the ground, helping the Tigers to a 9-2 record. Rick Neel and Mitzi Jackson share the other backfield spot.

League loses time-worn 'pacifist' tag rapidly

By KEN RAPPOPORT ... AP Sports Writer .

Except for UCLA, the Pacific-8 has been known as the "Pacifist-8" for a long time in college basketball.

No more.

UCLA continues to bully teams as usual, but now Southern Cal and Oregon have emerged as fighters to challenge for supremacy in the Far West and perhaps the country.

All three undefeated Pac-8 powers demand attention while building their combined records to 23-0 against outside teams. including these successes Saturday night

-UCLA, the country's No. 3 team, won the Maryland Invitational Tournament at College Park with an 81-75 triumph over Maryland's fifth-ranked Terrapins.

-Southern Cal, No. 6, bombed 20th-ranked Rutgers 81-66 to advance to Monday night's finals of the Holiday Festival Tournament in New York.

-Oregon, ranked No. 19. plowed toward the championship of the Far West Classic in Portland by trimming Arizona State 80-76.

The Bruins, getting most of the headlines through the past decade, could be getting some of the headaches this year from their powerful Pac-8 colleagues. Even with UCLA's domination out West, the Trojans' basketball program has improved steadily under Southern Cal Coach Bob Boyd's guidance and this is probably his best team. Oregon, with the likes of Ron Lee, considered the best guard in the conference, gives the Pac-8 the most balance it's had since UCLA started winning national championships in the KANSAS CITY (AP) - Basketball teams coached by Ted Owens of Kansas and Ken Trickey of Iowa State could stage another cliffhanger tonight.

The occasion will be the finals of the Big Eight Conference pre-season tournament at Kemper Arena. Kansas, 6-4, will be pretty much the same club that defeated Trickey's Oral Roberts University team 93-90 in overtime in the Midwest Regional finals at Tulsa, Okla., last Trickey, fired from that job. now is the coach of the Cyclones, 5-5, and here he is in another championship battle with the Jayhawks. "No, I'm not out for revenge," says Trickey. "I have a nice feeling about playing against coaches like Ted Owens and Jack Hartman. Trickey's Cyclones whipped Hartman's Kansas State Wildcats 82-64 in the semifinals Saturday night. Kansas, coming from 12 points behind, nipped Nebraska 63-62 on Tommie Smith's 15-foot jumper with 12 seconds remaining. Kansas has a great team that is big and physical," Trickey asserts. "They've, got great talent even though they've had a few problems. You've got to play Kansas. You can't take it easy. We're going to play and shoot the works."

Owens isn't saying whether he'll start his big team or his quick team.

Owens explains that the Jayhawks fare better "playing big teams but we are not better off playing big and quick teams. We have a problem if we go to our quicker team because then Iowa State will be bigger."
Smith, Roger Morningstar, Clint Johnson; Norm Cook and

Dale Greenlee make up the Jayhawks" quick five. The big team has Danny Knight and Donnie Von Moore replacing Morningstar and Smith. If Owens starts his regular lineup, the Cyclones likely will start Art Johnson, Hercle Ivy, Jeff Branstetter, Steve Burgason and Larry Loots. Johnson contributed 28 points nd Ivy 25 in the Cy triumph over K-State. Two straight baskets by Johnson broke a 43-43 tie with 141/2 minutes left, and the Wildcats never caught up again. Before Smith's game-winning basket for Kansas, Rickey Harris hit a 10-footer with 48 sec-

NEW YORK (AP) - Nineteen persons from the New York metropolitan area who died in an airplane crash in a Guatemalan jungle Saturday were brought together by an advertisement in a teachers' magazine. Two others who died were from Ohio

It was an ad for a charter trip that included a visit to Mayan ruins in Guatemala.

The twin-engine aircraft had just lifted off from Tikal airport in northern Guatemala and was bound for Guatemala City when it crashed 100 yards from the unpaved runway and burst into flames.

Cause of the accident, the third worst in Guatemalan history, was not known, officials

In addition to the tourists, a Guatemalan crew of three peringston, N.J., a guidance counselor in a Bernardsville, N.J., school, brought the magazine home. She suggested to her husband, Dr. Robert Traurig, a South Orange, N.J., dentist, that since their sons David, 18 and Jonathan, 14, would be on a school holiday and were "history buffs," everyone could make the trip.

"The whole family is gone," said a neighbor after learning that the plane carrying the four Traurigs had crashed in flames near the Tikal ruins.

Florence Berger, of Brooklyn. also saw the advertisement, and she and a fellow teacher at New Utrecht High School, Muriel Etlinger of Manhattan, decided to spend the year-end holiday looking at the ruins.

Albert Capon of Brooklyn, sales manager for L.M.T. Steel Partition Co. in New Jersey,

mentary teacher in the Bedfor d-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, were being mourned Sunday by a 19-year-old daughter, Susan. Susan was staying with Mrs.

Capon's sister, Mrs. Albert Botton, who said "the girl is taking it pretty hard. 'She didn't know anything until we heard a news report this morning," Mrs. Botton said Sunday

Another teacher, Mrs. Yves LeMay, 44, of Long Island's Plainview High School, decided to treat her teen-aged children to the holiday trip. Nina, 17, and Peter, 15, went along.

Mrs. LeMay and her children lived in Glen Head on Long Island with her parents.

Noise in head will not quit

Dr. Lamb Approximately four years ago I noticed a noise in my head. which greatly disturbed me because I imagined all kind of things that could be wrong. This noise is not with me all the time. I may have it one day and not the next. If I drop off to sleep in my chair after a day's work I wake up with it, and it may last for two days.

After going to several doctors and using ear drops and being examined for the prostate gland, which is normal, I have no relief.

This noice has caused me to become very uptight and nervous. I have taken many kinds of tranquilizers. I had a complete physical in a hospital, and they found nothing nor did they give me any relief from the noise. The brain scan was

I have had three hearing examinations which showed that I have lost some highfrequency hearing and have been told this caused the noise. I was told I would have to live with this noise.

I'm 62 and weight 150 pounds, which is my normal weight. This noise is hard to describe. but it sounds like a high line wire humming in the winter

To urge fine for fish kill

CABOOL, Mo. (AP) — The state Water Quality Office will recommend that the attorney general's office seek to fine a fertilizer company here for a phosphoric acid spill that has killed about 16,000 fish in the Big Piney

John Rice, a Water Quality official, said Ozark Fertilizer Co. failed to notify proper authorities when the acid spilled from a railroad car being unloaded on the plant site.

The fish kill was first reported last Friday by a local citizen. Rice said

The Water Quality Office instructed the company to put lime in the river to stop any serious kill downstream. Frank Ryck. conservation department biologist, said.

Don Jones, conservation agent here, directed the dumping of nearly 75 tons of crushed lime Monday nearly four miles below the spill

Ryck said the kill area was confined to a 2.25-mile area downstream from the spill

Spills from other area plants in 1972 and 1973 killed more than 100,000 fish. Most of the fish killed by the latest spill were minnows, a Conservation Department spokesman said.

Cleaning of well fatal for brother

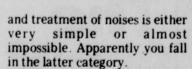

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) -Terry E. Ownbey, 20, Kirksville, died Monday night, possibly of carbon monoxide poisoning, during a wellcleaning project here, the highway patrol said.

Ownbey and a brother. James, were cleaning a well at the home of Melvin Huff. Terry entered the well to shut off a gas-driven pump and. after going deeper into the well to check some pipes, became dizzy and fell, the

Any obstruction in the outer ear can cause ringing sounds in the ear. If it is wax, simply removing the excess wax in the ear may cure the difficulty. Unfortunately most cases are not that simple.

Ringing and noises can also be caused by some medicines. When the medicine is stopped. the ringing stops.

Circulation changes in the brain and around the hearing mechanism can cause ringing or buzzing noises. Some people are more aware of normal circulation sounds than others.

Damage to the ear, for example from a very loud noise such as gun fire, can cause this condition.

Increasing age is commonly associated with buzzing and ringing in the ears. This is probably related to changes in the arteries. For this reason I usually advise people with this problem to do the same things they should do to prevent heart disease, go on a low-fat, lowcholesterol diet, correct obesity and get regular sensible exercise.

Avoiding coffee and drinks that contain caffeine may help some. That is better than taking tranquilizers. Patients with Meniere's disease may also have ringing in the ear, dizziness, nausea and loss of hearing. This is probably related to accumulation of fluid and changes inside the delicate ear mechanism, not inside the brain.

The best advice I can give you since you have already had a good examination is to try the diet, exercise program, and avoid caffeine-containing drinks and cigarettes. That may help some. (NEA)

Teachers' salary adjustment ordered

Joplin R-8 School Board has been ordered to adjust teachers' salary schedules upward or explain its reasons for refusing to do so by next Tues-

The order was issued late Monday by District Judge Robert Warden after the Joplin Community Teachers Association (JCTA) filed suit earlier in the day charging the board is withholding state funds earmarked for the Judge Warden set 1 p.m. to-

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) - The day for the board's "showcause" hearing. The alternative he set before the board is that it apply at least 80 per cent of state funds it has received for education to teachers' salaries.

> In its petition, the JCTA charged the board has "failed and refused to allow duly designated representatives of the association to meet with the board for the purpose of negotiating the required modification of the teacher contracts for the payment of additional annual compensation to which the teachers are entitled for the 1974-75 school year."

The teachers' association claims $316,000 is theirs, saying it would provide an additional $430 per faculty member this year.

The heart of the suit is a state law directing that at least 80 per cent of all foundation program funds channeled to local districts by the state be spent each year for teacher salaries.

Nancy Niess, JCTA president, said the board received more state money than anticipated and has not provided the additional funds for the teachers' fund.

"After many attempts by the JCTA to negotiate a satisfactory agreement, the board has steadfastly refused to pay the salary money to teachers and we have been forced to take this action and to go to court to gain what is rightfully, legally and morally ours," Mrs. Neiss said.
